RED TAPE NATION

How Government Red Tape Hinders America's True Energy Potential

The New Global Energy Leader

America has become the world's energy leader, having surpassed both Saudi Arabia and Russia in combined oil and natural gas production.

Daily Oil Production

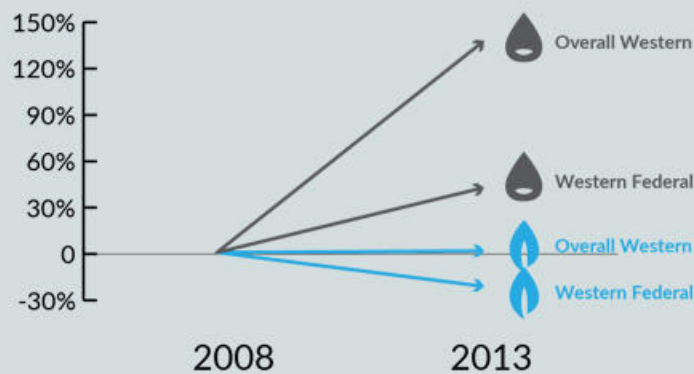

Despite the Federal Government

The President likes to take credit for the energy boom, but that success is despite, not because of federal policies. On federal lands in the West, more Red Tape has caused production to lag relative to private and state lands.

We could produce even more energy as a nation if the federal government encouraged, rather than hindered, development on federal lands.

Federal Lands Are Simply Not Keeping Up

Western federal onshore natural gas production is down and while oil is up, it lags far behind private and state lands.

RED TAPE NATION

The federal government has created an elaborate labyrinth of Red Tape.
